Sheriff's annual open house draws largest crowd ever

The annual open house at the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station continues to grow in popularity by leaps and bounds. The 600 hot dogs purchased for the open house were gone in the first hour, and the crowd was estimated to have gone over the 1,000 mark.

Local residents came to learn more about the operations of the station, see the various exhibits, and enjoy the free music, food and drinks. Among the most popular features were a demonstration of police dogs working, the helicopter, McGruff, a laser gun (used to record shooting accuracy in practice situations), crime lab work and counterfeit items.

Sheriff John Duffy arrived shortly after noon and was besieged by the media before freeing himself to circulate among the attendees.

Captain Jim Roache, Lt. Lynn Ziegler and numerous other deputies and staff worked hard to make the open house the overwhelming success that it obviously was.

Lemon Grove honors Burkett

The text of the Certificate of Recognition read as follows:

WHEREAS, Sergeant Russell C. Burkett began his many years of service to the City of Lemon Grove as a member of the first Traffic Division of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station; and

WHEREAS, Rusty was selected as the first City Motorcycle Officer, a position he held until his promotion to the rank of Sergeant on August 20, 1982 and subsequent transfer to Descanso Detention Facility; and

WHEREAS, to the delight of both the City and Rusty, he returned to Lemon Grove on September 23, 1983 to serve as Traffic Sergeant; and

WHEREAS, Rusty's interest in and dedication to the City of Lemon Grove is exemplified by his participation in civic affairs, special events and social functions in the community; and

WHEREAS, on July 13, 1989, Sergeant Burkett was transferred to the City of Santee to the position of Detective Sergeant; and

WHEREAS, the City Council, staff and residents of Lemon Grove wish to recognize Rusty's many contributions to the people of Lemon Grove.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JAMES V. DORMAN, Mayor of the City of Lemon Grove, on behalf of our city government and all its citizens, do hereby extend this Certificate of Recognition as an expression of our deep appreciation to Sergeant Russell C. Burkett for his contributions to our community.

BE IT FURTHER PROCLAIMED that Russell C. Burkett is hereby declared an Honorary Citizen of Lemon Grove and is entitled to all rights, privileges, and honors pertaining thereto.

JAMES V. DORMAN, Mayor
Attest: KAREN THOMSON,
City Clerk

Council continues zoning request

The council meeting began with Mayor Jim Dorman reading a certificate of recognition for Rusty Burkett's years of service to the city and the presentation of a pin, normally given for a stated number of years of service.

The mayor explained to Burkett that they intentionally left the years of service off the pin, implying that when his term in Santee is up, the City of Lemon Grove hopes that he will be reassigned to the Lemon Grove station.

After approving merit pay increases for Betty Russell, William Davisson and Thomas McBride and ABC license applications for Alpha Beta, Godfather's Pizza and Tony's, the council considered the general plan amendment application of John and Charlotte Craig affecting 13 parcels on Lemon Avenue.

After testimony from a land use consultant representing the property owners, as well as several property owners, the council voted to continue the request until November 8, 1989.

The coucil then jumped over several agenda items to get to a report on the County Water Authority Water Distribution Plan (to put a pipeline through Lemon Grove). After a summary by City Manager Jack Shelver, the council heard from Lester Snow, General Manager of the San Diego County Water Authority (SDCWA). Snow said that SDCWA would provide the city with the data upon which they based their decision to select the western route so the city could understand the reasoning. Then, with this additional data, SDCWA will work with the city to select the best route within the western corridor through the city.

SDCWA staff will meet with staff from Lemon Grove and La Mesa to review the additional data and to work toward an agreement regarding how problems will be handled.

In other action, the council passed a resolution authorizing the sale of property at 8243 Golden Avenue, held a reading of an ordinance forbidding scavenging of recyclable materials and decided to take applications for the Planning Commission until September 29, 1989 with interviews on October 9, 1989.

Have you visited the downtown area recently? If you haven't, you should drive through and take a look at all the new "faces" along Broadway. The new treatment to store fronts adds a clean and revitalized interest.

JACK SHELVER, City Manager, provided some interesting information about the ongoing revitalization work along Broadway. To date, the Redevelopment Agency has obligated funds in the amount of $344,374 for use in our downtown area.

Some 51 or 52 property owners are eligible for rehabilitation assistance, 35 have been involved, four declined and the remaining number have decided against at this time. Nineteen projects have been completed and 16 are in various stages of progress.

And the latest word on billboards is: The last two should be down by the end of the month.

JOHN and CHARLOTTE CRAIG have requested a zone change for property on the south side of Lemon Avenue. They would like the General Commercial changed to Heavy Commercial. According to John, neighboring property owners concur and have so stated by submitting letters to the city.

General Commercial would mean "walk in type retail business" and the peoperty owners feel that retail business will never be established along that block. They feel a more suitable heavy commercial zoning would enable them to better use the land.

The Planning Commission heard the property owners' views on June 26. The Fire Marshall and the City Engineer recommended against, primarily because of parking along a street too narrow for heavy commercial activity. The vote was 4 to 1 against and the recommendation turned over to City Council for further action. This issue was on the agenda to be heard Monday, August 21. Mr. Craig was assured that adjacent property owners would be at the public hearing to support his views.

Have you seen the big red Moving Sale sign in the window of Marianne's Beauty Supply? STEVE and ERICA ALDRICH, co-owners of Marianne's, have decided to reach out to a wider market. They plan to make the move in early September to Lemon Grove Plaza.

Because Marianne's was so familiar to Lemon Grove, when Erica bought the store seven years ago she opted to keep the name. Now that she has expanded the business to include color consultation and makeover, the name of the store will be changed to "Color Me Beautiful by Erica."

Both Steve and Erica work with color consultation and look forward to welcoming their customers and friends to the new location. Says Erica, "We plan to move the first week of September and are working to that end."

Congratulations Steve and Erica. See you at the new store. And all the needle and thread buffs in the area will be pleased to learn that a House of Fabrics Super Store will be a part of the Lemon Grove Plaza shopping area.

House of Fabrics, in Market Place at the Grove, will have closed by the time you read this. VICKY SALAZAR, at the store, said the target for opening at Lemon Grove Plaza is the first week of September, though it might be the second week. According to Vicky, "We will reopen as quickly as possible."

Kentucky Fried Chicken and Carl's Jr. are already open and doing a brisk business.

TEX MIDDLETON, one of our busiest retirees, spent some unexpected time in the hospital recently. Seems Tex's heart doesn't want to keep pace with his mind and body. After undergoing a battery of tests, he is wearing a heart monitor. The doctors have to determine whether medication will regulate heart rhythm or if a pace maker will be necessary.

When asked whether or not the doctors told him he'd have to slow down, he replied, "I think it is time to get the brushes out again." Tex is a painter, his favorite medium is watercolor.

Our local library has a new manager and a new staff member. CATHY HEART has been with the library for a number of years and recently accepted the position as manager. PAULA ROSETE, with the county library system for a couple of years, is a new staff mamber at our branch. Stop by and say, "hello!"

A sidewalk sale is planned for Saturday, October 14. Book sales are fund raisers for the library, so if you decide to rearrange your book shelves, the library will accept donations of books starting October 1.

Severson named employee of the month in August

Dorothy Severson, a University City resident, was selected as Grossmont Hospital's employee of the month for August. A hospital employee since 1964, Dorothy is affectionately known as the "birth certificate lady," since her duties in the Medical Records Department include registering all new babies born at Grossmont.

Dorothy is also greatly appreciated by this newspaper, as she provides us with the information concerning births to local residents.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

Being from Oklahoma, my bride had never seen a lake nor done any fishing. After our honeymoon, many, many, many years ago, which we spent at my cabin in the lake area of Southwestern Ontario, Canada, she got the fishing "bug."

She loved the Canadian wilds so much that we bought a nice piece of lakeshore and built ourselves a summer cabin on it. From that time on, we have tried to spend nearly every summer up at our Canadian paradise.

After lunch and a short nap my wife, Willie, would usually suggest, "Let's go out and catch our supper." She now enjoys fishing as much as I do. (One of the few things we have in common).

Our boat is conveniently docked only a few short steps from the cabin. Although the lake is about 8 miles long, we do our best fishing along the shore just in front of our place.

We enjoy catching Northern Pike because they bite hard almost anytime of the day and can get pretty big. The best bait for Northerns are huge sucker minnows. Willie said, "Those bait fish are big enough themselves to filet for a meal." Leeches are also used for bait but neither Willie or I have enough nerve to put one of the ugly creatures on the hook.

Even though I give Willie my oldest and worst fishing gear to fish with, she invariable catches the biggest and most fish. Sometimes in envy I let her use my brand-new outfit and I use hers but she still pulls in the lunkers. She is the luckiest fisherwoman that I have ever shared a boat with.

In what seems to be just a short time, especially when you're having fun, Willie will say, "Let's go in now as we have plenty of fish for our evening meal." The daylight lingers to past 10 p.m. in the summer, so you could fish much longer than we do.

"Get the skillet hot and I'll be right back in with the fillets, ready for the pan," are my orders to my wife as I am the official fish "filleter" and she is the official "chef." About five minutes from lake to frying pan, how much fresher can you get?

The Norther Pike cannot be filleted boneless like his cousin the Walleyed Pike, so some pesky bones remain. To solve that problem with the smaller fish, we grind the fillets with an old time zinc meat grinder. The Chef makes them into thick patties, dips them in cornflake meal, and fries them to a turn. Just like eating candy. Boy! Are they good.

The Canadian law allows only six fish per species per person to take across the border and they have to have a strip of the skin left on the fillet for identification. I'm tempted to try to get over the line with my ground fish patties by adding a little red food coloring. They would then look just like a stack of "Big Macs" all ready to grill.

Our Canadian neighbors were so glad to see us this year that they all came with gifts: fresh fish fillets, apple pie, home-grown raspberries, freshly baked bread, and best of all, a big wild blueberry pie from berries picked that same morning. We sure do love those nice people as we have for many years.

After a summer up on the Canadian waters, it is hard to settle for local San Diego fishing in the man-made lakes that have been stocked and are overrun with hungry fisherman. Also, come spring I know that I will have a most-anxious lady fisherman on my hands. God willing, maybe we can go up there "just one more time."

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

Political Action Committees, popularly referred to as PACs, are being eyed by Congress.

Congress brought PACs into being some 25 years ago in an attempt to give Congress back to the people instead of making it the handmaiden of "fat cats" and "high rollers" whose funding directed many congressional decision. Much of the funding today is still union dues as it was prior to PACs.

PACs were originally conceived as a means to cause more equal distribution of union money. That thought was deep in Republican thinking. Unions had always supported Democrats; business supported Republicans.

Now, high rollers can give only $1,000 to each candidate; PACs limit is $5,000. Republicans had thought contributions would be equalized under PACs—but they were mistaken. Unions still support the Demos, but businesses do also.

For example, according to Heritage Features Syndicate, in 1987–88, corporate and trade association PACs gave $32.5 million to Democratic house members. They gave $28 million to Republicans.

Union PACs however, gave a reported $25.2 million to Democrats, and just $2.1 million to Republicans.

It can be seen why some Republicans now want to further restrict PACs—as President George Bush recently proposed. The Bush proposal would eliminate PACs supported by corporations, unions and trade associations—and reduce allowable contributions from independent PACs from the current $5,000 to $2,500.

This, it is said, would eliminate the belief that PACs would no longer make it "the best money can buy."

The Bush package targets some clearly objectionable practices: the personal use of "left-over" campaign funds by politicians; free use of the mail by congressional incumbents; political "gerrymandering" of legislative boundaries; and the often unseen political activities of organized labor, and trade and professional associations.

According to Heritage Features, unreported "in-kind" political activities of Big Labor and others—is far more corrupting. Organized labor each year collects approximately $5 billion in dues and fees from the rank-and-file, many of whom consistently support GOP candidates at the polls.

From this huge reservoir of funds, union officials field an army of lobbyists and political operatives. In fact, unions spend some $10 million a day on staff payrolls alone. And many of these staffers work exclusively on political matters, according to Heritage.

The White House fact sheet on President Bush's campaign-reform package says it would "codify the (Beck) Supreme Court's decision."

If Congress doesn't go along with the package, the President could instruct the National Labor Relations Board to insist that all union members, and prospective members, be fairly notified of their rights under the Beck decision.

As a sidebar, Reed Larson, the energetic sparkplug of the "Right to Work" movement, has begun his campaign in California where an estimated 2.2 million union members anted up some $770 million last year to various union locals.

Thomas Jefferson once said, "To compel a man to support a cause with which he disagrees is tyranny."

Enforcing the Supreme Court's decision would help clean up U.S. politics.

Letters from our readers

Dear Editor:

Add this "log to the fire" of Mr. Robert Merritt (letter printed 7-27-89) regarding the problems he had with the City of Lemon Grove in attempting to repair his damaged fence, and to the fire of Mr. Henry C. Eckler (letter printed 8-3-89) regarding the "runaround" he got from City Hall regarding his broken windows.

Almost two years ago, the residents on my block were shocked to find that our curbs had been painted red, thus depriving us of the privilege of parking in front of our homes as every other resident enjoys that resides in a residential zoned area. This red curb painting was done without any prior notification from our fair city and without any chance to "beg for mercy" at council meetings. According to a clerk at City Hall, the purpose was for safety reasons—she could not explain why the speed limit was also increased at the same time, which does not make too much sense.

A petition was drawn up and signed by all 18 households on the block, and was sent via certified mail, along with a cover letter to ALL council members, the city manager, the mayor and the public works director.

That was nearly two years ago and as of this date, we have not received an acknowledgement from any of the above. To point out the unmitigated arrogance of our so-called public servants, we took the matter to a local attorney and guess what—they didn't respond to his letter either!

So my fellow Lemon Grovers—it's up to you at voting time—our only satisfaction so far, is knowing that the two incumbents in the last election didn't get reelected as a result of our votes.

To add salt to the wound—our street, Skyline Drive, is on the proposed route for the Otay Mesa's water pipeline. Now we read that our city fathers (and mothers) are only objecting to that portion that "might interfere with the local business area and drastically reduce the city's income—to hell with the local residents.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

The Chargers finally got serious about the 1989 NFL season. In the face of a game-ready quarterback void, Steve Ortmayer swapped a conditional 1990 collegiate draft choice to Chicago for earthy, high-spirited and irreverent 7-year veteran Jim McMahon.

According to the football record book, McMahon is a winner, almost without peer. He took the Bears to 35 victories in his last 38 starts, but because of injuries, he was only able to start 23 of Chicago's last 47 games.

Injuries have been part of his professional life. He's had hand fractures, a lacerated kidney, shoulder injuries and shoulder tendonitis, rotator cuff surgery, hamstring pulls and sprained knees. Yet, he keeps coming back and is reported to be in the best shape of his career. McMahon is a pretty tough guy.

That's the playing side. McMahon is something else on the kid's hero scale. In the book of social exchanges and civil graciousness, McMahon is a no-show. He flaunts behavioral standards and civil customer is a sheer sophomoric display of individualism.

He has a running social misdemeanor with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle concerning messages on his headband. Rozelle says no advertising, so McMahon prints messages on his headband that read "MIA/POW," or "Rozelle."

Rozelle can't fault messages about war prisoners or those missing in action, nor can he find umbrage with an honorarium.

One wonders if the affront is harmless fun, just a meaningless whim, or does it indicate deep-seated hostility to authority? And if so, how deep-seated is the hostility and what range of authority does it cover?

McMahon is a fighter who comes to play. San Diego was witness to one of his more remarkable achievements when he directed BYU against SMU in the 1980 Holiday Bowl. Down 45-20 late in the 3rd quarter and with a 4th and long situation, he chased the BYU punter off the field and fired a strike for a 1st down to keep the drive going.

A pair of TDs, a 2-point conversion, an on-side kick recovery, 3 time outs to stop the clock along with the SMU running game and a blocked punt gave BYU to ball on SMU's 41 with the Texas school still on top 45-39 and just 18 seconds to play.

A pair of incompletions ran the time down to :03 seconds.

McMahon didn't endear himself to the Mormon Elders in the dressing room when he described the final play.

"I sent everybody down, stepped back and threw a 'Hail Mary,' " he said. He fired it into the end zone to tight end Clay Brown. "He's the only other 'mackerel snapper' on the team," cracked McMahon, in the post game dressing room press gathering.

BYU won 46-45 after time ran out. McMahon completed 32 or 49 passes for 446 yards and 4 TDs. He was a hero, and a brat.

The jury is still out on the effect his boorish conduct and disruptions have had on the highly disciplined demands of professional football. He wasn't even on speaking terms with Bears' coach Mike Ditka this pre-season. That is childish.

McMahon turned 30 on Monday. Perhaps maturity will dampen his seemingly endless, ongoing battle with authority.

Charger head coach Dan Henning is known as a disciplinarian, but he is also a pragmatic realist. If the chemistry is right between them, the Chargers could be headed for the playoffs.

Joe Freed on the movies

'Casualties of War'

This is truly powerful. Director Brian DePalma has created a story which is so intensely human in its brutality that it is not only horrific, but also emotionally frustrating.

Michael J. Fox is an Army private serving in Vietnam who witnesses the rest of his patrol, under the guidance of his sergeant (Sean Penn), kidnap and repeatedly rape a young Vietnamese girl. The frustration Fox emits over his impossible situation, unable to stop his comrades or to help the girl escape, is incredibly gripping. And the story itself, filled with simplistic brutality and shocking honesty, is unforgettable.

The audience really comes to hate Penn and his men, especially after they continually try to murder Fox, attempting to silence his reports to Army officials. Penn has perfected the bad-guy image, and even though he's typecast in such roles, he works too well for complaints. As for Fox, this should be the film where he sheds his Alex P. Keaton image for good. His character is just the boy next door who sees the violent acts of his fellow soldiers for what they are— immoral.

DePalma's direction is perfect—he's a gifted artist—and some of the scenes are far more moving than those in "Platoon," the highly-praised predecessor of "Casualties."

The film isn't for those with a weak stomach, however, as like most Vietnam films "Casualties" is graphic—sometimes too graphic. The rape scene, and the eventual murder of the girl, is especially harsh, even though supposedly patterned after an actual incident.

"Casualties of War" is a good antidote for the Rambo genre which glorify war and destruction. Casualties is overly graphic and terrifying, but it offers a lesson on innocence which must be taught to every generation.

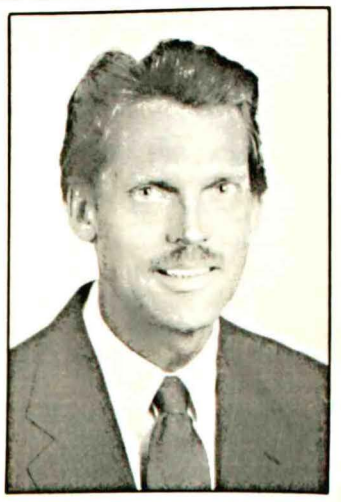
Sunland Communities names William Laugaland president



Sunland Communities, a San Diego-based developer of residential communities through California and Nevada, has announced the addition of William P. Laugaland as president, according to Tom Dobron, Sunland's vice chairman and chief executive officer.

In his capacity as president, Laugaland will be primarily responsible for overseeing all financial and administrative aspects of Sunland's activities, as well as coordinating lender and joint-venture partner relationships for the company. Additionally, Laugaland will interface directly with Sunland's founders—Ure Kretowicz and Tom Dobron—regarding land acquisition and the implementation of overall company strategies, policies and direction.

Prior to his arrival at Sunland, Laugaland was senior vice president of theWestern Region for Radnor Corporation, one of the nation's foremost real estate developers. Under his leadership, the Western Regional office of Radnor entered into partnerships for the development of approximately $700 million of office, residential and retail construction throughout Southern California and Arizona. Eight of these aforementioned partnerships were entered into successfully with Sunland.

A native of Leland, Illinois, Laugaland received his bachelor of science degree in accounting from Northern Illinois University and a master's degree in business administration from San Diego State University, eventually becoming a certified public accountant. In addition to his tenure at Radnor, Laugaland also served as chief financial officer for another San Diego-based diversified real estate developer, and was an audit manager for Touche Ross and Company.

For many years, Laugaland has been active in both community and trade organizations. He is a past director of Home Builders' Council of the Building Industry Association of San Diego, past president of the Centre City Optimist Club and 1984 Optimist of the Year, and a former trustee and board vice chairman of Skyline Wesleyan Church in Lemon Grove.

Laugaland is also co-chairman of a major fundraiser for child abuse prevention to be held in December in conjunction with Skyline Wesleyan's "Living Christmas Tree" production.

A United States Navy officer veteran, Laugaland resides in El Cajon with his wife, Christina, and the couple's two daughters, Carisa and Shayna.
